No Untoward Incidents Expected For Olympics

Paints Picture of Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Spl.)—Praise for the new campaign picture of President Roosevelt is being heard here on all sides, as the new painting is being shown at campaign headquarters.

Painted by Jacob H. Perskie, of Atlantic City, N. J., the new head of the Chief Executive, shows the same spirited mien as the 1932 campaign painting.

Perskie, who is Jewish, is the father of eleven children. He is shown at left at work on the painting. He also painted the 1932 picture.

Troth of Film Star Announced

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (Spl.)—Engagement of Eleanore Whitney to Sam Rosenthal, Jr., was announced here. Miss Whitney, who is being groomed for stardom, has been cast in "College Holiday," Jack Benny's next picture for Paramount.

Wittenberg was the original name of Miss Whitney.

Anti-Semitism Covered Over By Censorship

BERLIN (Spl.)—With the Olympics scheduled to get under way officially Saturday, no hitch in the plans of the propaganda bureau to obliterate all traces of Jewish persecution have as yet revealed themselves to any but the most trained observers.

American news correspondents have touched on the propaganda bureau's orders to delete all mention of Jewish athletes who participate in the Olympics from any newspaper accounts, but this move was expected and caused little stir. Some mention has been made of the fact that Helene Mayer, half-Jewish star, who sacrificed her principles to fence for Germany, has been mentioned only once in any German publication, although she is world's champion and almost certain to win for the Nazis.

Two Jewish performers on the American team, Sam Stoller, of Cincinnati, who represents the University of Michigan, and Marty Glickman, Syracuse University flash, who is known to New York as the "Schoolboy Wonder," have encountered nothing but the most pleasant reception. They are entered in the 400-metre relay. Although no definite tally can be made, it is believed that few Jews are represented on any of the other teams.

Jewish homes are "verboten" for housing visitors and a strict surveillance of all Jews to prevent the spreading of any anti-Nazi rumors has been established by the police. Only the most unforeseen occurrence will bring an anti-Jewish incident into the open, and even if this did take place, only the immediate witnesses would have any knowledge of the affair, since a strict censorship would be imposed immediately.

Few Jewish visitors are in evidence for the Games, despite reports that many foreign Jews were present.

BRILL NAMED OFFICER

NEW YORK, N. Y. (Spl.)—Magistrate Jeanette G. Brill has been named a vice president of the recently organized National Crime Prevention Institute, Rowland C. Sheldon, executive director, announced.

Beautiful Forest Burned Down

MISHMAR HA'EMEK, Palestine (Spl.)—Despite the fact that the forest at this place has been the scene of twelve incendiary attempts by Arab vandals, seven of which were successful, and other forests have experienced similar arson thrusts, only 2 per cent of the trees of the Keren Kayemeth forests have been destroyed in the past three months.

During the rioting 37,000 trees have been burned to the ground.

At right is a picture of the Avenue of Trees in the Mishmar Ha'emek. Trees like these were fired by aroused Arabs.

Commenting on the situation a statement issued by the Jewish National Fund declares: "Seven times the woods of Mishmar Ha'emek have been fired; the Bal-four Forest at Ginegar four times; the groves of Ben Shemen twice. Only because the Jewish settlers have hastened to put out the flames at the risk of their lives from the incendiaries who lie in ambush, have no more than 37,000 trees in the Keren Kayemeth forests, only 2 per cent of all their trees, been destroyed. Yet let not the number seem small. Actually, in terms of all the labor and funds devoted to those 37,000 trees until they grew and flourished, their destruction is a very serious matter.

"For us those burned trees at Mishmar Ha'emek and Ginegar and Ben Shemen are even more than tokens of the renewed fertility of our old Palestinian earth. They are symbols of the great men in Israel and other nations in whose name they were planted and whose deeds they memorialize. Now that those forests have been subjected to ordeal by fire, they have become doubly precious in our sight."

The Editor's Chair

Four letters in one issue of this paper is something of a record. Yes, this week four readers are making use of the privilege offered by this paper in its "Freedom of the Press" column. A month or so ago, this chair appealed to readers to voice their feelings on the Jewish situation through the column of this paper set aside for that specific purpose.

However, it was not with any too altruistic motive that the letter column was stressed here. It is a journalistic fact that the letter column of any paper is usually one of its most interesting features. Like headlines, practically every newspaper of any consequence today, boasts a column where readers may voice their protest, commendation or grind an axe either for themselves or in behalf of some cause.

If any evidence of this interest is needed, take the time to peruse the letters printed this week. One is a protest against the news policy of the occupant of this chair, who printed the news article on Lower California. Another calls the attention of readers of this paper to the Jewish exhibit at the Texas Centennial. The remaining two letters, perhaps of less profundity, are none the less interesting.

Then, too, in the past two weeks the controversy over the C. C. A. R.'s resolution on conscientious objectors, was thrashed out in the same column.

It is with no feeling of pride that the above is written. Rather it is with a hope that letters will continue to be written to this paper, so that throughout the year a constant stream of letters will be printed for the help of the editor, the edification of an unenlightened public, and the interest of casual readers.

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, who recently celebrated his sixtieth birthday, has written a new volume of reminiscences, which Houghton Mifflin will publish in October. The title is "A Book Hunter's Holiday."

Rabbi Wise Should Abandon Plan To Stump Nation For Roosevelt

In the face of developments in the political arena in the past few weeks, it is to be hoped that Rabbi Stephen S. Wise will abandon his announced plan to stump the nation for Roosevelt this fall.

At the time when Dr. Wise made his decision to campaign actively for President Roosevelt, Rabbi Wise had neither been elected to presidency of the Zionist Organization of America, nor had the holding of the World Jewish Congress, which he probably will be named to lead, been a foregone conclusion. In addition, the injection of the Jewish issue although more or less expected, into the presidential campaign was at that time a future occurrence which, judging by past events, would not have taken the outspoken and public form it has achieved. If then, is added to these new developments the entrance of Father Coughlin into the presidential battle as a full-fledged representative of the Union Party, it must be admitted an entirely different aspect will be cast upon Dr. Wise's speaking tour in behalf of Roosevelt, than could have been expected when the arrangement was first made and later announced.

Rabbi Wise as a prominent spiritual leader, and rabbi of the Free Synagogue in New York is not the same personage as Rabbi Wise, president of the Zionist Organization of America.

The announced platforms of both parties reveal so little difference in their social planks that Rabbi Wise's support of Roosevelt because he best approaches the Jewish ideal of social betterment, will no longer uphold Rabbi Wise's decision as sturdily as it did before the naming of Governor Landon as Republican standard-bearer. Consequently if Rabbi Wise is for Roosevelt, he cannot otherwise be than against Landon. If he is not otherwise be than against Landon. If he is fertile then will be the field for the purveyors of anti-Semitism. In place of referring to nebulous

Jewish activities against the nation, and the Jews who are now associated with the Washington government, men like Edmondson, Pelley, James True, and the like, can legitimately crucify the Jewish people and the Jewish name on the words of Rabbi Wise. As their cohorts, although possibly not as outspoken, they will have many men of the Republican Party, whose hate against Roosevelt even Democrats admit, is unaccountably bitter, and can easily attach itself to any Roosevelt supporter and the group that supporter, rightly or not, is alleged to represent.

Father Coughlin's espousal of the Union Party and Candidate Lemke's aspirations for the presidency, cannot be compared in degree to Rabbi Wise's partisan aid to the Democratic Party, although the Radio Priest has already won for himself and Catholicism no end of animosity and hatred. Rabbi Wise is the president of the Zionist Organization of America; he is the duly elected representative and head of a great body of Jews of the United States. Father Coughlin is a priest, the representative of his own parish, and by no means the spokesman of the Catholic faith.

Wherever Dr. Wise speaks it will be Rabbi Wise and not Dr. Wise. His campaign will normally open himself to criticism from every Republican newspaper in the nation. Whenever he speaks, he will make news, and front page news at that. The unfortunate thing about the whole incident is that only a few will separate Rabbi Wise the individual from Rabbi Wise the Jewish leader.

In view of the new situation, it is very probable that Rabbi Wise will abandon his plans, not as the result of personal fear or cowardice, for no one has ever accused him of lack of courage, but because he has even in the space of the past few months assumed a new position in the Jewish community, from which only years of retirement will ever, and maybe not then, remove him in the eyes of the general public.

New Body for United Jewry Will Not Be Able Enforce Decision

The suggestions made by James I. Ellmann, Detroit Jewish leader and former Highland Park, Mich., judge, for the accomplishment of the much-discussed unity in American Jewish life is worthy of consideration by all interested in the Jewish problem, as a step in the right direction and a possible solution of a problem which has undergone trial and effort experimentation since the advent of the twentieth century.

The suggestion envisions the formation of a Jewish Supreme Court of Honor for the adjudication of all disputes by Jewish organizations. "I think," Mr. Ellmann wrote in The Detroit Jewish Chronicle last week, "we can arrive at honorable solutions of honorable disputes, if most of these would be taken in tow by a properly established and properly managed body of judicial character."

"Some such body," Mr. Ellmann continued, "may save us from stumbling into the many false solutions which have been bringing us wholesale disappointment and grief. A body of fair and honest representatives—and we have many of these—could sit together and quietly silence needless wranglings as well as formulate more wholesome action. This would be a model tribunal where social ideals might be analyzed, tested, and promulgated; where conflicts involving our honor as a people or as individuals could be set at rest."

"Out of such a place a body of advisory opinions frequently with even greater than the moral potency of law could emanate. In many instances, it could conciliate or arbitrate every sort of major or minor dispute involving the peace of the community, locally, nationally, as well as internationally, depending in each case upon the nature of the specific needs."

"The minority opinions would even be a healthy sign that honest differences must continue. But at least we shall know that some appropriate forum has gone to work and has arrived at an agreed method of action, or non-action. Without that what have we? There are no agencies to serve us in the face of common calamities. Isolated individuals propel themselves into acting or speaking as our representatives. By what right, no one knows. Hence an accepted form of representation must be evolved to treat our problems in some such manner."

Unquestionably a properly constituted body as here outlined would be a salutary force in American Jewish life, if its decisions could in any manner be enforced, not by might but by Jewish public opinion. What happened to the Joint Consultative Committee, composed of the three and later the four major Jewish organizations, would effectively throttle the work of any Jewish Supreme Court. When the American Jewish Congress took exception to the judgments of the Joint Consultative Committee it merely withdrew and followed its own wishes. The Joint Consultative Council, composed of B'nai B'rith, American Jewish Committee, the Congress, and later the Labor Body, is today a dead issue in American Jewish life, because, like the Confederation of States of American Colonial history, it had no means of enforcing its decisions.

With Jewish public opinion as weak and inarticulate as it showed itself in the World Jewish Congress issue, it could never be mobilized behind a Supreme Court as planned by Mr. Ellmann. The most learned Jewish men in the United States, deliberating carefully and calmly, could no more influence any of the major Jewish organizations in the United States than Rabbi Wise could dethrone Hitler by orating against the Nazi regime.

Yet the situation is not as hopeless as it might seem. As pointed out here before, the growth of unity in fund-raising throughout the nation, will in the very near future result in a concrete body of representative layman opinion, with the force of the combined funds raised every year behind them, which will demand and secure cooperation, arbitration and harmony on the American Jewish scene. Already, in practically every city in the nation, save except New York, united drives are held once yearly to raise the community's quota for national and in most cases local relief and rehabilitation. To arrive at these unified drives, a cohesive communal organization has been a prerequisite. And it is these articulate bodies, only now feeling their power and resources, which will soon demand and secure a unified American Jewish community.

What structural form this unity will take is a matter of the future. That it may take the honor court tribunal, much like the Din Torah of Orthodox Jewry, and Mr. Ellmann's suggestion is quite possible. Mr. Ellmann's tribunal, unimplemented by enough social force to make its decisions obeyed, would be abortive in the same manner as the Joint Consultative Committee. But the desideratum is there and will be filled much sooner than is expected.

Freedom of the Press

Takes Paper To Task For Printing News Item On Lower California

As one fully conversant with the situation in Latin America, Mexico included, I was quite shocked at the lack of responsibility demonstrated by your paper in its issue of July 10, 1936, by the headline: SUGGESTS PURCHASE OF LOWER CALIFORNIA AS HAVEN FOR JEWS.

It seems to me that above all "A Newspaper for American Jewry" ought to be better informed on conditions of Jews in Mexico that might be very unfavorably affected by such a screaming headline.

Furthermore, no responsible newspaper, much less a Jewish organ in these days of crisis for our people, should make such a bold statement merely on the basis of a thoughtless suggestion by some Jewish Mr. X., whose only claim to fame is apparently an American Legion button.

There is a good deal that might be said that you should have known and do not seem to have any idea of in connection with Mexico of today and of the situation of the Jews in that country. But a reader's letter is not the place for it.

As a matter of fact, I was inclined to pass your July 10th issue up entirely as another example of the futile Anglo-Jewish press in this country. However, in your July 17th issue, you publish on your editorial page a letter from another reader who wants a worldwide Jewish movement to purchase Lower California, and whose communication opens with the bold sentence: "Lower California is for sale." Lest in your evidently perfect unfamiliarity with everything concerning Mexico, you allow this crazy and dangerous idea actually to become known where it might do us nothing but harm, I wish to call the following to your attention:

Shortly before the closing of the Congress one of the members of the House, also taking for granted that Lower California was for sale, proposed its purchase by the U. S. A. in a speech to the lower chamber. Two days later the New York Times published a communication from a representative Mexican resident in this city in an official capacity reminding that Congressman that American gold could not buy everything and that such loose talk did not help to create good feeling between nations. Neither will Mr. Silverman's proposal.

JOSHUA HOCHSTEIN,
Founder, Pan American Student League of New York.
New York, N. Y.

Editor's Note: If a paper prints as a news item an article about a murder, the paper does not then automatically favor murder. The article on Lower California was strictly a news item, and no editorial espousal of the cause mentioned was made. The letter favoring the purchase of Lower California was printed as correspondence from a reader under the same privilege as Mr. Hockstein's letter is printed this week.

Worried By Situation Of Polish Jewry

To the Editor:

The way Jewish children are suffering in Poland is shameful. If, as your article last week said, Jewish children like to stay in "after school" because of the uninviting home atmosphere, the situation must be deplorable indeed. With all the drives for relief of Polish Jews, and the work being done by Jewish organizations, it (Continued on Page 5)

Having survived the heat wave, the drought and vacationitis, I am still in your midst and able to carry on again this week . . . I will admit it is getting more and more difficult to write these few lines each week due to the fact that most of you have hit out for places unknown (to me), and are probably by this time basking in the torrid sun and sitting in some cool lake waters refreshing yourselves with maybe a top coat for evening wear or perhaps dancing to some nationally-known orchestra to pass your summer time while your correspondent and the rest of us unlucky individuals are compelled for one reason or another to stay at home and make a lot of money (the wonderful stuff) . . . well, every dog has his day, and I, too, will soon be vacationing and storing up some heat for the cold winter months to come . . . If I don't get away pretty soon . . . I am going to call it quits and jack my time up to next January and spend my vacation and shekels in the Southland seeing if what they say about Dixie is really true. . . .

Bouquet

Enough of this rambling; let's get down to the business of this day, that of choosing a notable for the award of flowers and honorary mention in our column . . . any idea who it is to be? . . . No? . . . Well, I'll tell you . . . today it's to be a man who, when your eyes read down this paragraph to his name, will say, "Well, it's about time his name appeared in your column," for he is certainly deserving of, not only having it added to the list of famous local Jewish characters appearing in this column but also of having it inscribed in the Golden Book of Reward in our Jewish community, for public spirited, generous giving of his time, effort and money . . . I have known him all my life and as far back as I can remember his name has always been associated with, and as a leader of Jewish activities in our city . . . Mr. Isadore Feibleman, The Jewish Post joins me in saluting you, and thanking you for your many helpful years of untiring service to Judaism in Indianapolis. . . . Mr. Feibleman is past president of the local B'nai B'rith Lodge and has also held other high posts in the organization . . . he is past president of the Temple Brotherhood, and I believe also past president of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation . . . he is past president of the Apartment Owners Association of Indianapolis and has also held high positions in the Masonic Order . . . there are many, many other activities that Mr. Feibleman has assisted in an official capacity such as the Jewish Welfare Fund and Jewish Educational Society. . . . You will note that in all these groups he has at one time stood at the head of all of them . . . he is a born leader . . . helping comes to him naturally . . . we all appreciate his efforts through all these years and hope that he will continue on for many more . . . the writer has had the experience of meeting his friend out only on the Atlantic Coast but also on the Pacific. . . . Mr. Feibleman is truly one of our great local Jewish leaders worthy of having his name mentioned herein . . . so to him for this week goes the flowers and our congratulations and best wishes. . . .

Post Opens New Office

Opening of new offices at 1016 Majestic Building was announced today by G. M. Cohen, publisher of The Jewish Post. The new telephone number is Lincoln 6782.

In announcing the change of offices, M. Cohen said: "The reception the new Jewish Post has received from Indiana Jewry has necessitated an expansion in office space and the opening of a downtown office. Because of its central location, the office should prove a convenience to many people who wish to bring news items and other material for publication."

"The Jewish Post is not the paper we hope to provide for the Jewish communities in Indianapolis and Indiana. In the next year, it is our hope that we will be able to provide a larger and more complete organ for the City and State. It is also our hope that our publication will be judged on its merits, with the idea in mind that this paper should be better six months from now than it is today, and better a half year later after that than it will be then."

Revue Planned By Federal Players

Following the Federal Players' presentation of William Anthony McGuire's rollicking comedy, "It's a Boy," which will enter upon a second week at Keith's Theatre, commencing Monday night, the company will be featured in a novel production to be called "A Midsummer Festival Revue," in which, in addition to the Federal Players, all the various entertainment units of the Federal Theatre Project for Indiana will be employed.

The performance will be staged in two parts embracing ten scenes and it will run the gamut of magic and mystery, music, singing, dancing, comedy and a thrilling one-act playlet. Among the innovations will be Lloyd Nevada and Company in a weird but mirthful "black art" presentation; an old-time "medicine show" afterpiece, "Over the River, Charlie," one of the funniest skits ever devised, an aggregation of typical hillbilly musicians and singers, and a "Way Down South" Mississippi levee scene introducing a large group of talented Negro singers, dancers, musicians and funmakers.

Transcript Editor Is Threatened

Letter Warns Against Attacking Pelley's Party

SEATTLE, Wash. (Spl.)—Postal inspectors here are investigating a threatening letter sent to Herman A. Horowitz, editor and publisher of The Jewish Transcript, which is printing a series of articles exposing William Dudley Pelley's Christian Party.

Mailed from Tacoma, Wash., and written in red pencil, the letter consumed four pages. It was written on stationery of a prominent Tacoma hotel.

"Retract," the letter said referring to the Pelley articles, "or you and your friends will have a chance to attend a free party with all the entertainment at our expense." Later on the letter said: "If you have a surplus amount of intestinal fortitude, please publish this letter or its contents."

After publishing the epistle, Mr. Horowitz said: "I have nothing to fear from such anonymous, swastika-signed threats. The Transcript's series will continue exposing the Christian Party's nefarious activities and naming the men who are spreading anti-Jewish, un-American slander."

$10,000 To JNF In Will

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (Spl.)—National Land Redemption in Palestine, carried on by the Jewish National Fund, will be furthered to a considerable extent as a result of a generous provision contained in the last will and testament of Rabbi Simon Fyne, for many years spiritual leader of Congregation Ohel Jacob in this city. The rabbi, who was not a rich man, bequeathed to the Jewish National Fund the sum of $10,000.

Rabbi Fyne was one of the early adherents of Zionism. Following his visit to Palestine twenty-five years ago, the rabbi denied himself all but the bare necessities of life in order to increase the sum he intended to leave for the cause of Palestine Land Redemption.

Charity Not Wanted By Jews of Poland, Starvation Preferred

Free Loan Societies Established in 724 Cities
Made 150,000 Loans Last Year

Editor's Note: Marek Turkow, noted Polish Jewish journalist of the Warsaw Daily "Moment" has just returned to Poland after a short visit to this country. In the following article he tells of conditions among the Jews in Poland and of the value of American assistance.

By MAREK TURKOW

Staff Writer of the "Moment" of Warsaw, Poland

In order to comprehend fully the life of a nation, or of a specific group within that nation, one must go among the masses, take part of their daily life, share their joys, their sorrows and see their needs. Such knowledge cannot be gained merely by reading.

Especially is this true when the 3,500,000 Jews in Poland are under consideration. In this case the above is condition sine qua non. By delving into dry statistical data, one cannot grasp the profound tragedy, the terrible process of pauperization, the plight and despair of the Jews in Poland.

To all those who come face to face with such destitution, who try for a fleeting moment, to familiarize themselves with the psychology of people, who were independent and well-to-do only a short while ago, who never had to seek help from others—indescribable misery is revealed.

The economic life of Poland, chiefly an agrarian country, has for centuries been so organized, that the role of the so-called middle class has been transferred to immigrants. These immigrants have enriched the country by establishing new branches of the national economy, by building new cities, by creating national industry, which greatly benefitted the government and the majority of the Poles.

Over 60 per cent of the Polish population (there are 35,000,000 people in the Polish Republic, one third of whom constitute national minorities) are peasants and land owners. They possess enormous tracts of fertile soil. The Jews, however, constitute the dominating element in the cities where there is a concentration of trade, and especially in the small towns—the market for rural agrarian produce.

In the chief cities, the Jewish population constitutes about 30 to 40 per cent of the general population. The Jewish population of some small towns is as high as 90 per cent. There the Jews constitute a majority, and are the actual taxpayers. The remaining 10 per cent, the Poles, hold the majority of the police, government and local offices.

Historical Situation

Some may think that this is an abnormal situation. However, we must take into consideration the fact that this happened not because of the desires of an existing party but rather as a result of a development that started many generations back when Jews were not permitted to settle in villages or buy land. At that time, they were given permission to settle only in certain localities and to engage in a limited number of professions. The first thing that they were told to do was to engage in commerce in order to develop the country, using Jewish energy, industry and commercial experience.

The claim now brought forth by anti-Semites, that the Jews are controlling commerce in the cities, is inconsistent. But truth and logic never trouble the anti-Semites.

If, however, they would resort only to anti-Semitic propaganda and stop at that, the result would not be so tragic. But the ultimate aim of this agitation is nothing less than blood. The Jews are constantly exposed to terrific oppression and deprived of all opportunities of earning a livelihood.

In the process of driving out the Jews from their work shops, the anti-Semites are using legal and erature through the mail. His offices in the National Press Bldg., in Washington are very lavish.

"The most startling thing about some of these anti-Semitic groups," Dr. Birkhead said, "is the fact that they are setting up secret organizations in some of which the members are known only by numbers. The members are definitely going to be armed. I was in the office of one of those gentlemen and I saw an assortment of policemen's blbies, all of the hip-flask variety. They are using the slogan, 'Kill the First Jews,' suggested by William Dudley Pelley, head of the Silver Shirts. The impudence and temper of these people is similar to the temper of the Black Legion which is spreading all over the country."

"I asked True what he thought of the statement of Landon's campaign manager, John Hamilton, that he is not anti-Semitic. True said that it was too bad because it will lose eight million votes for Mr. Landon."

Birkhead declared the work of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League to be most valuable in combating such movements in America. Each of the anti-Semitic groups, he said, have a Nazi flavor and in many instances are directly tied up with the Nazis of Germany. It is necessary, he said, to expose to the American people that anti-Semitism is being employed here as it was in Germany and that there is a strong movement for the Nazification of America.

seems that something could be done to alleviate their condition. It's no wonder so many Polish Jews want to go to Palestine.

On The Jewish Exhibit At The Centennial

To the Editor:

Noticing the article in your issue of last week about the Jewish exhibit at the Texas Centennial in the Hall of Religion, I thought I would add my personal experience to what you printed.

The exhibit as a whole leaves one with an inspiring impression. Carried out with dignity to the smallest detail, the Jewish section, despite the fact that it shows all the intimate parts of the Sabbath Service the Torahs and prayer books, etc., has been commented on by the many non-Jews for its impressiveness.

Texas Jews have gone to a lot of effort to contribute their share to the Centennial. Early in October, as you said in your article, an interesting program has been arranged for Jewish week. At this time the exhibits, and talks, will be of especial interest to Jewish people.

I have been to the Centennial grounds several times, yet every visit to the Jewish exhibit gives me a feeling of pride in our accomplishments and in our great Jewish men.

ANTI-SEMITES IN SOUTH ARMED

Pastor Says They Are Ready To Fight On The Shortest Notice; Tells of Investigations

NEW YORK (Spl.)—Existence of a secret, anti-Semitic organization in the South whose members are armed and who are ready to take immediate and violent action against the Jews, was reported here by the Rev. L. M. Birkhead, pastor of the Liberal Center of Kansas City, and authority on Fascist and anti-Semitic groups.

Refusing to name the Southern Group because they are being investigated by the proper authorities, Mr. Birkhead said: "In the East the anti-Semitic movement is stronger than it is in the West because it has more financial backing here. It would be difficult to prove, but there are some financial interests who are even putting up money for the defense of Robert Ed. Edmondson. There is no question but that they are financing the publication and distribution of anti-Semitic and pro-

Fascist literature.

One of the groups visited in New York by Dr. Birkhead is the League for Constitutional Government at 18 East 8th Street. This is ostensibly a patriotic organization at the head of which is John B. Snow.

"They do not say they are anti-Semitic," Dr. Birkhead said, "But I was able to buy the 'Protocols of Zion' from them and a pamphlet called 'Zionism' which they have imported from England. This pamphlet charges that Zionism is a world conspiracy to put the Jews in power. It also says the Jews control the League of Nations and are trying to impose Theosophy on the world."

Dr. Birkhead tried to visit Mrs. A. Tellian, New York correspondent of Streicher's Der Sturmer, the anti-Jewish newspapers of Nuremberg, Germany. She is the publisher of the American Bulletin and the Irish Outpost, a newspaper which is trying to stir up anti-Semitism among the Irish people in America. In every issue of her papers she uses the slogan, "Don't Forget Huey Long—Killed by the Jews," and she repeats it in all her speeches. She would not interview Dr. Birkhead, he said, until he had read a number of anti-Semitic books to put him in a proper frame of mind.

In Boston, Birkhead investigated the Industrial Defense Association whose leader is Edward A. Hunter and which is one of the most active anti-Semitic groups in the East. Hunter circulates such pamphlets as "Are the Jews the Chosen People?" and "Was Christ a Jew?"

In Washington he called on James True of the James True Association and America First, Inc. True maintains a news service and distributes anti-Semitic lit-

Ohio Champ May Try For New Laurels

CINCINNATI, O. (Spl.)—That Mrs. Burt Weil, three-time winner of the Ohio State Women's Amateur Golf Championship, may be persuaded by friends to enter the national tournament in September, was indicated here following a testimonial dinner in her honor at the Losantville Country Club. Mrs. Weil won the championship at Cleveland last week, annexing at the same time the long driving contest, and tying for low medalist honors with a 76.

In winning the title for the third time, Mrs. Weil gained permanent possession of the James M. Cox Trophy. She is also the Cincinnati woman's champion, having won that title previous to her successful defense of her state diadem.

CHARITY NOT WANTED

in a still greater measure, illegal methods. They are trying to bring about economic reforms in such a manner that the positions of the Jews are the first to crumble and upon these ruins a new class is arising, from among the Poles themselves—the Polish middle class. The Polish merchant, the Polish petty trader, the Polish artisan and the Polish intellectual are supported by the government and by society at large. On the other hand, the Jewish merchant and petty trader are helpless and forsaken and sink from day to day to a lower level. They have no opportunities, and no hope of better days to come.

Whenever a struggle is started against the middleman, it is intended for the Jew and he is always the first on the firing line.

When machinery was introduced in the bakeries, thousands of Jews were deprived of their source of livelihood. When the Bill limiting Schechita was passed, no mercy was intended for the animals. The aim was to wrench another means of livelihood from the Jews. Whenever new cooperatives are established, they are meant to undermine the very existence of the Jewish merchants. Facts, similar to these are so abundant, that they can hardly be enumerated, and the number of Jewish victims of these economic reforms, reach a fantastic figure.

Credit Aid Chief Support

The chief support in the struggle of the Polish Jews against economic losses is the constructive program of credit aid instituted and supported by the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee. It was well understood that all campaigns launched for the distribution of charity among declassed Jews would be disastrous. People who had occupied reasonably secure positions in life, suddenly became beggars, wholly dependent on charity. Many would rather starve than receive this sort of help. Such degradation was not to be permitted. It would have dragged these people to still lower depths of misery and despair. Small loans could put many artisans back on their feet and would provide a large number of pauperized Jews with the necessary means of earning a living. Realizing this, the J. D. C. formulated plans for the granting of credits to Polish Jews in order to revive Jewish economic life. The J. D. C., together with the leaders of the Polish Jews, organized the most important of Polish Jewish institutions—the network of Free Loan Societies—Gemiloth Chessed Kассas, which provided loans and an opportunity of repaying these loans in monthly installments. There are at present 724 Kассas

Council Jewish Women Open Fair Headquarters

DALLAS, Tex. (Spl.)—Council headquarters at the Centennial were dedicated here Tuesday by Rabbi Stanley R. Brav. A musicale

featuring some of the artist members of that Section followed the ceremony.

"Council Day" at the Centennial Exposition will take place on the 28th of each month, Mrs. Arthur Brin, president, announced. Fort Worth and Tyler Sections will participate in the August 28th program and will act as hostesses at the headquarters which is in the form of a lounge, located in the Food Building on the Centennial grounds.

who have worked for the establishment and development of these Kассas, understand it.

in Poland. Last year they granted loans to more than 150,000 family heads. The Kассas, few at the start, began to grow and spread quickly throughout the entire country. At present there is no city or town lacking a free loan society. This sort of help has proved to be the best method of constructive aid for the impoverished Jewish masses of Poland.

Here we must record another fact that occurred simultaneously with the appearance of the Gemiloth Chessed Kассas: the best creative forces of all shades of party affiliations have been concentrated around these Kассas, which are organized into one large central organization. It has become a nation-wide movement spreading among all strata of society. All those in need of free credits can procure them very readily through the Kассas.

Recognized By All

The organization was very quickly recognized, not only by the Jewish population, but also by the Polish social and government circles. The Polish government, impressed by the earnest efforts and magnitude of this work, went so far as to grant subventions to the Gemiloth Chessed Kассas, and to exempt them from all taxes. The Cekabe is a model organization throughout the country.

However, the latest events in Poland should compel us to redouble our efforts in this constructive work and establish Kассas even in the smallest towns. That this is the present trend in Poland can be seen by the establishment of a Kassa soon after the pogrom in the town of Przytyk. There the ruined Jews were given an opportunity to rehabilitate themselves.

The same has happened in other towns which suffered from excesses and anti-Semitism boycott agitators and anti-Semitic boycott agitators in Galicia and in the province of Wilno which suffered from fire and floods.

Polish Jews want no charity. They want constructive aid to secure work and an opportunity to earn a living.

American Jewry should understand this trend among the Polish Jews, as the leaders of the J. D. C.

Rehearsals For 'Eternal Road' Set

NEW YORK (Spl.)—Resumption of rehearsals for "The Eternal Road," dramatization of the 2,000 years' history of the Jews, will be begun in the fall, Crosby Gaige, co-producer with Meyer W. Weisgal, declared here in announcing the return of Max Reinhardt to conduct rehearsals.

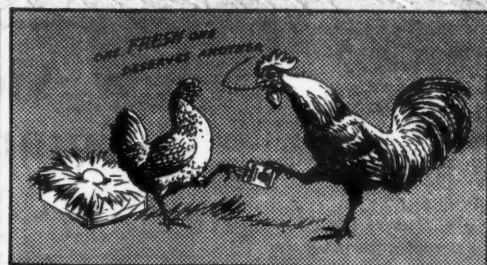

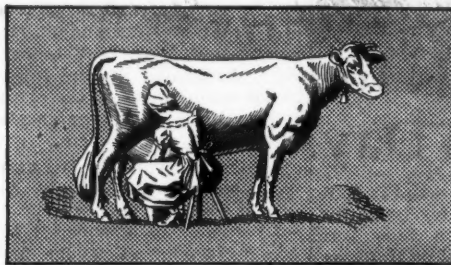

Originally begun last winter, the spectacle met financial reverses when the quarter million outlay for expenses was quickly used up. After an abortive attempt to raise more capital, the producers decided to postpone production until this year.

Announcement was made that approximately the same cast that rehearsed last year will be re-employed for the spectacle.

by Dr. Lefkowitz, Dr. Henry Cohen of Galveston, and Dr. Ephraim Frisch of San Antonio.

Two hostesses are on duty daily at the headquarters which are decorated in the Council colors, blue and white. Posters and other exhibit material showing the activities of the nearly 200 Sections of the Council are on display. The Centennial Committee also plans to show moving pictures at intervals during the exhibit months.

Dr. Dmitri Marianoff, son-in-law of Professor Albert Einstein, has resigned from the editorial board of The Jewish Forum, a monthly magazine published in New York.
